campaign since Tammany rei trenched itself in power have the leaders of that organization been so much in dread of a "turning down" at the hands of the public. Tammany district leaders, like the seasons, have come and gone, but usually at the command of Tammany's Boss. Now that the people are aroused to the fact that they should do the bossing there is a good prospecof their leaders going in a body.

The leaders, as a consequence, are not to their liking, and the strong probability that after Jan. 1 next they may find the public crib closed against them has thrown them into a panic. And with good reason. The district leaders of Tammany Hall and the three members of the Committee Eight who are not district leaders draw from the city treasury the sum of $206,500 yearly in salaries.

Few of them have any other occupation than office-holding. Defeat at the coming municipal election, with the possibility that a Republican Legislature will pass and a Republican Governor will sign to them, therefore, something more than loss of office. It means a loss of their only means of subsistence.

Here is a list of the district leaders with the offices they hold and the salaries they draw. It is preceded by the names and offices of three members of the Big

The few district leaders who do not hold office get money from the city by contracts, &c.

What would become of these men if they were thrown out of office? Some of them provided for a rainy day while Tammany's star was in the ascendant, but a majority of them have lived up to their incomes, and these would be in a pitiable state, indeed, if they were compelled to earn their living like other men. Not more than a half dozen men on the list of district leaders have demonstrated their ability to earn a livelihood outside of politics.

not contain more than $5 per cent. of water, and not less than $15 per cent. of solids, in which $15 per cent. there must not be less than $3 per cent. there must not be less than $3 per cent. of fat.

Commissioner Emery has instructed the inspector is to selze any milk the specific gravity of which does not register $100 by the lactometer. The milk dealers assert that this requirement is unjust, as, because of the long dry season during the Summer, the cattle were deprived of good grass, and their milk is consequently poorer.

Another cause of complaint lies in the fact that the Health Commissioner will not permit the sale of skim milk in Brooklyn, and as cream is the lightest part of milk the lactometers register a correspondingly low figure.

During the past six months there have been more than three hundred milk dealers arrested, and a fine of $25 was imposed in almost every instance. Right here is another cause for complaint on the part of the dealers. The majority of these cases have been tried before Justice Walsh, who, it is said, will not accept any evidence in refutation of the Health Department, but invariably takes such analysis made by the chemist of the Health Department, but invariably takes such analysis as conclusive evidence.

As the milk dealers are not summoned to court for a month or more after the inspector has taken a sample of their milk, they claim that they have no means of tracing the milk, a sample of which has been taken, as it frequently happens that one dealer procures a supply for another because of unusually heavy sales.

ALBANY, Oct. 15 .- An important question has arisen concerning the use of the paster ballot at the coming election. James E. Roach, representing the labor organizations, has written to the Attorney-General to ascertain if paster ballets may not be used in voting for the constitutional amendments. The labor organizations have three amend-ments which they desire to vote for, and they have all been put in the general scope of amendments, and are known as amendment 3. They think they have the same right to use the paster ballot in voting for the amendments as they have in voting for the

On his downward flight a couple of longshoremen, who witnessed the accident, caught Andy and threw him on his feet. The force of the fall, however, staggered Andy, and after landing all right he fell forward on his face in the street, and received a number of severe cuts on his head.

For a few minutes he was dazed, and when he recovered his speech his first remark was, "Am I killed? I don't know."

When assured that he was on earth, Andy remarked: "Well, I ought to know; I hit it hard enough."

The front running gear of the truck was badly damaged. Andy was put together with sticking-plaster; the cable car proceeded downtown and the excitement was soon over.
